AURORA THEATER BUILDING BURNS EARLY THIS MORN

The Business Section Was Threatened by Fire in City's Heart

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The Rialto Theater building was destroyed by fire early today with a loss estimated at $1,000,000. The three-story building, located on Main street in the center of the business district, house six stores and numerous offices in addition to the theater.

For a time it appeared as though the flames would spread, threatening the entire business section, but emergency calls brought fire departments from Elgin, Joliet, Batavia and St. Charles, the combined forces succeeding in confining the blaze to the Rialto building, although the Fox theater adjoining was damaged to the extent of about $10,000.

Had Gained Headway.
The flames were discovered at 1:30 a. m., two hours after the Rialto theater had closed for the night. The fire had gained considerable headway before an alarm was turned in. Origin of the blaze had not been determined today, but it was believed crossed wires might have been the cause.

Only the skeleton of the structure was left standing. A bowling alley in the basement, a jewelry store, restaurant, tailoring shop, electric shop were among the stores destroyed. Offices of doctors, lawyers and others on the upper floors also were burned out completely.

No Trace of Mental Disorder in "Fox"

San Francisco, Oct. 20.—(AP)—University of California medical authorities, after performing an examination on the body of William Edward Hickman, have announced that so far as they could determine, there was no constitutional evidence of insanity.

Hickman was hanged for murder at San Quentin prison yesterday. The report of the examiners indicated that there was nothing abnormal about the endocrine glands—the internal organs of secretion which are held by scientists to contribute toward mental affliction. The brain was found to be unusually large.

Hickman's insanity defense included reports of medical men which said his physical condition indicated insanity or lack of mental balance.

LOS ANGELES CITY COMMISSION FEELS WRATH OF PUBLIC

Incarceration of Mrs. Christine Collins Brings Revolt

Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A cloud of public indignation hovered over the Los Angeles Police Commission today, the outcome of its investigation into the holding of Mrs. Christine Collins in the city psychopathic ward for ten days recently because she doubted the identity of a boy, who police had insisted was her son.

While the mother prepared to prosecute a $508,300 damage suit against the city, a group of women, a grand jury, a city public welfare committee and another band of citizens started efforts toward a public airing of the case.

The sudden turn of event traveled close upon a decision of the commission clearing a police officer of liability in imprisoning Mrs. Collins in the ward. She is the mother of the missing Walter Collins named in murder indictments at Riverside, Cal., as one of the victims of torture and murder on the chicken ranch of Gordon Stewart Northcott.

Young Collins disappeared from his home here last spring. Subsequently a boy was found at DeKalb, Ill., and returned here by police as the missing youth. For months he lived in the Collins' home, though the mother repeatedly declared he was not her son.

Finally Captain J. J. Jones of the Police Juvenile Bureau had Mrs. Collins removed to the city psychopathic ward for mental observation because she refused to accept the youth as her son. Police had demanded that she keep the boy.

Then the boy was identified as an imposter. He revealed himself as Arthur Hutchens of Marion, Iowa, who led police to believe he was the missing boy in order to get a trip to California.

At the resulting investigation of the police commission, Jones was freed of blame on the assertion that he could not be censured when young Hutchens had completely deceived friends and neighbors of the family, despite the mother's claims.

Filed Damage Suit
Yesterday the mother filed a half million dollar damage suit against Captain Jones, Chief of Police Davis and the city charging false incarceration. At the same time a grand jury was reported to have expressed dissatisfaction with the commission's inquiry. The Women's Political League in letters to city councilmen demanded that direct action be taken to punish police officials responsible. In addition to these developments, the City Public Welfare Committee determined to hold an open hearing into the case next Wednesday and a group of aroused citizens announced an unofficial mass meeting Sunday afternoon to register a public protest.

TWO BABES FELL TO THEIR DEATH FROM HOTEL ROOF

Unusual Tragedy Befell Wealthy Woman in N. Y. for a Visit

New York, October 20.—(AP)—The baby grandsons of the late Benjamin Guggenheim, copper magnate, playing on the roof of the Hotel Surrey in East 76th Street, fell 13 stories to their death yesterday afternoon.

Terrence, 4, accidentally upset his brother, Benjamin, 13 months, over a wall as he attempted to jump into his mother's lap, and both fell on another building.

Their mother, Mrs. Milton Waldman of New York and London, youngest daughter of Mr. Guggenheim, who was lost on the Titanic, fainted and was prostrated several hours. Mr. Waldman, a writer and former New York newspaperman, is assistant editor of the London Mercury.

Here on Visit
Mrs. Waldman recently returned from England and had been visiting at the Hotel Plaza suite of her mother, Mrs. Benjamin Guggenheim. She had gone to call on Mrs. Cornelius Ruxton Love, her cousin, in her beautiful penthouse apartment on the Surrey roof.

Mrs. Love was not at home but had left word for Mrs. Waldman and her two children to await her return in the roof garden. They had gone to the edge of the roof, Mrs. Waldman holding the baby in her arms. Apparently jealous of the attention given his brother, Terrence climbed to the seat of a swing and attempted to jump into his mother's arms. The baby was knocked from her arms over a three-foot wall and Terrence, losing his balance, followed.

BEAUTIFUL NEW DRUG STORE IS OPENED TODAY

Ford Hopkins Store is Handsomely Stocked and Arranged

The beautiful new Ford Hopkins drug store opened this morning at 8 o'clock and at 11 o'clock, an average of 1,000 persons an hour had visited the pharmacy and patronized the various departments. The management claims for the Dixon store, the largest floor space of any drug store in Illinois with a population less than 100,000 people.

In arranging the store room in the Beier building, the company has expended $32,000 alone in remodeling the interior and front of the store room and installing equipment and furnishings. The interior decorations are quite unique and carry out a special type adopted in all of the company's stores. The decorating was under the personal supervision of John Greco of Chicago, an artist who claims the distinction of having painted three Raphael loggias in the Vatican at Rome. The architectural plans were drawn by John L. Dean of Chicago and New York.

The prescription department is a feature of the new store and is in charge of Joseph Muellemann and Herbert Cavanaugh, graduates of Creighton College and registered Illinois pharmacists.

The system of displaying drugs and accessories is unique in that every item in the huge stock is in plain sight of the customer.

The soda fountain is one of the largest in use in northern Illinois. It is an all metal fountain, modern and sanitary in every respect and equipped with electrical refrigeration. Ten clerks, all residents of Dixon, are employed in the new store, and all have undergone a several days course in special sales training. A feature of the prescription department provides for special training for high school students aspiring to become pharmacists, the Ford Hopkins Company later aiding them in their college education.

Another department in the Dixon store is maintained solely for farmers' needs and an experienced advisor is in charge, who may be consulted at any time. A complete mail order department is also maintained and is to be featured in the Dixon store. Joseph Muellemann is the manager of the beautiful new Dixon branch.

The luncheonette feature of the store is also noteworthy.

MATTOONSCHOOL GIRL KIDNAPED AND ASSAULTED

Two Youths Arrested as Suspects in Brutal Attack

Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Unable to provide bonds of $5,000 each for their release, Ernest Schaffer, 21, of Montrose and Everett Curtner, 17, of Cumberland county, were held in the county jail at Charleston today awaiting a hearing on Oct. 29 on charges of kidnaping and assaulting Della Mae Clark, 12-year-old Mattoon school girl.

The condition of the little girl was much improved today. She was lured away as she was going home from school Wednesday night and held captive until the next week. She did not return home, however, till Friday morning when she said she regained consciousness after having lain all night under a bridge on a highway outside Mattoon. She identified the youths who had been arrested Thursday night.

Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—For more than 24 hours held captive by two kidnapers who assaulted her, 12-year-old Della Mae Clark, a school girl, was found today wandering on a highway near Mattoon in a dazed and serious condition.

Two youths, Ernest Schaffer, 21, of Montrose, and Everett Curtner, 17, of Cumberland county, are under arrest accused of abducting and attacking the girl.

Della Mae was found by a farmer as she was wandering aimlessly along the roadway and was taken home and placed under a physician's care. She told of being set free last night and wandering about lost all night. Her condition was such that authorities did not attempt to have her identify the two youths, although the State's Attorney said he was confident the boys were the culprits.

They were arrested last night as suspects not long after the hour the girl said she had been released.

Della Mae was kidnaped Wednesday afternoon as she was on her way home from school. She was unable to tell much about where she had been taken. She was a sixth grade student at the Hawthorne school. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Parker of Mattoon.

FALL IS FATAL TO MEXICAN ON NORTHWESTERN

Ruptured Artery in Abdomen in Fall off Push Car Friday

Apollinae Horceze, aged 19, a Mexican laborer, employed on a Northwestern section gang working on the out-off east of Nelson, sustained injuries about noon yesterday which resulted in his death at the Dixon public hospital shortly before 8 o'clock last evening. Horceze was a member of the section crew of which George Taylor is foreman and the men were on their way to work when the accident occurred.

Horceze is said to have been standing upright on a push car which was traveling at a rate of between 12 and 15 miles an hour, when he lost his balance, fell off to one side and rolled into a ditch. In falling, he sustained a ruptured artery in the abdomen and almost bled to death internally before medical attention was received.

Fellow workmen placed him in an automobile at the gang's camp, two miles south of the Hill school house, and rushed him to Nelson. The company physician, Dr. A. F. Moore of this city, was summoned and when he examined the man, ordered him removed at once to the Dixon hospital. An operation was performed yesterday afternoon but Horceze did not rally, due to loss of blood caused by internal hemorrhages and shock resulting from the operation and passed away shortly before 8 o'clock last evening.

The body was removed to the Jones funeral home where Coroner Frank M. Banker will conduct an inquest this afternoon.

Dawes, Vice-President of the United States, will speak over a national network of associated radio stations, including WOC and WGN, of which WEAF, New York, is the key station, Monday night from Madison Square Gardens, in New York City. These addresses are to be delivered before an enormous rally being staged there, and the Republican National Committee has extended the time to an hour and fifteen minutes in order that both speeches may be heard in their entirety.

The broadcast and meeting will have added interest through the presence of Mr. Dawes, inasmuch as this will be the first address he has made during the campaign. He will precede Mr. Hoover. While the subject of the nominee's New York speech has not yet been announced, it is generally believed that it will deal in part with the relationship between business and government, and other economic questions.

Thirty-nine stations will broadcast this important address between 7:30 and 8:45 central standard time.

PANSY FACES—

Ever hear of pansy faces? Showing frowns and grimaces. Any time the weather isn't fair? No, their smiles are broad and longer. And their stems grow thick and stronger. Though the breezes toss them every-where.

Smiling through the night's dark hours. They don't slumber like most flowers. But a constant, cheerful vigil keep. And the humming-birds and fireflies. Never heard of pansy night-sighs? Smiling gives them rest instead of sleep.

Pansy faces, white and yellow. Wave beside a purple fellow. Some in blue and brown attire are seen.

But no matter what the shading. Large and small are masquerading—Waiting-ladies for a fairy queen.

Pansy faces always smiling. Always happy thoughts compiling. Brightening the corner they adorn; Joyously they laugh together. At sunset and the same at morn.—Bela R. Halderman, Franklin Grove, Ill.

Miss Good Hostess At Hallowe'en Party

On Thursday evening at her home Miss Bernice Good was hostess at her home to a company of friends, the girls employed at the Eichler stores, and a few other friends, at a most enjoyable Halloween masquerade party. Chrysanthemums, and other autumn flowers decorated the home, and suitable Halloween motifs and characters, cats and witches and all such goblins one's imagination conjures up as taking part in frolics of this kind. There were about eighteen present. A short time after arriving the guests, unmasked, amidst much merriment. A prize was presented to Mrs. Earl Barnhart for being so cleverly masked that no one knew her. Other guests were both comically and beautifully garbed as the idea appealed to them. Oh, yes, there was a booth where a Titi-haired beauty told fortunes in a most amazing style and she must have been gifted with second sight so well did Mme. Reveall tell the fortunes, or else she, in some mysterious way, knew to whom she was talking each time she told the past, present and future.

During the evening Miss Irma Gross and Miss Ethel Fish were awarded prizes in the games which were so much enjoyed. Later most appetizing refreshments were served and at a late hour the guests departed for their homes with memories of a decidedly happy evening to remain with them for a long time.

Farewell Party For Mrs. Lightner

Mrs. A. L. Carr entertained Thursday evening with a farewell party for her sister, Mrs. D. J. Lightner, who is leaving Dixon soon. Bunco and music were diversions enjoyed during the evening. Mrs. William Frisby was awarded the favor for high score at bunco and Mrs. Ben Rippon was awarded the consolation favor.

During the social hour following Mrs. Lightner was presented with a beautiful pocket book from her friends who regret that she is to leave Dixon but wish her happiness with her family in their new home in Vincennes, Indiana.

Miss Ilean Wolf's Birthday Celebrated

Friday evening a group of young people gathered at the B. J. Wolf residence to help Miss Ilean Wolf celebrate her birthday anniversary. There were about forty-five guests in attendance.

The evening was happily spent in playing five hundred. Honors were awarded to Miss Mary McGinnis and Clifford Poisel. Consolation favors were awarded Joe Wolf and Lillian Wolf.

At a late hour delicious refreshments were served, after which the guests departed, wishing Miss Wolf many such happy birthdays.

Card Party Was Enjoyable Affair

Dixon Woman's Relief Corps, No. 218, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic held a card party Thursday evening in Grand Army hall.

At bridge Mrs. Louis Pitcher won first prize and Mrs. Walter Knack the consolation prize. Henry Schmidt won first prize for the gentlemen and Arnold Schultz the consolation prize.

There was a very good attendance. Dainty refreshments were served by the committee.

Miss Alfreda Weigle Weds Donald Swartz

This morning Mrs. Ada Teeter, of 105 North Galena avenue, and her daughter, Miss Stella Mae Weigle, accompanied by Keith Swartz of Dixon, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swartz of Rockford, left for Lansing, Michigan. There they expected to attend the wedding of Miss Alfreda Weigle, daughter of Mrs. Teeter, and Donald Swartz, both young people being very popular in Dixon with a large circle of young friends with whom they went to school and chummed with. Mr. Swartz attended an Iowa Agricultural College, and became an expert in his line, after graduating from Dixon high school. Miss Weigle, attended business college and for a short time was employed at the Howell-Page Co. store, later leaving for Milwaukee where she again attended business college and then accepted an excellent secretarial position which she held up to the time of her marriage, making her home with her aunt, Mrs. Perry Cowles in Milwaukee. Mr. Swartz has a fine position in Lansing. The many Dixon, Palmyra and Sterling friends of the young couple will hasten to extend best wishes and congratulations on the happy even of today, for both are admirable and estimable young people.

Bethel W. M. S. Met At C. E. Hill Home

The W. M. S. of Bethel U. E. church met at the home of Mrs. C. E. Hill Thursday afternoon. The meeting was opened with a musical number on the victrola, "What a Friend in Jesus." The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Hill. Followed by a song "In the Garden." Mrs. Quincer, Mrs. Hess and Mrs. Hill lead in prayer.

The topic, "The Red Man," was given in a very interesting manner by Rev. S. G. Quincer. A leaflet, "When Anna Arrives" was read by Mrs. B. Barkley, which was enjoyed by all. Very interesting echoes of the W. M. S. conference which was held at Kimball Ave church, Chicago, were given by Mrs. C. E. Hill, Mrs. Harrison Wadsworth, Mrs. S. Quincer and Mrs. Carl Hess. Followed by a song, "The Call for Reapers." At this time the meeting was handed over to the president, Mrs. Hess and the usual business was transacted. A generous offering was lifted for the Amy Chadwick Orphanage. The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. S. B. Quincer.

During the social hour the hostesses Mrs. B. Barkley and Mrs. Hill served tempting refreshments.

Happy Evening at Grover Gehant Home

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Grover Gehant delightfully entertained guests at five tables of bridge, all being from Ashton, except Mr. and Mrs. Fred Richardson from this city. The home presented a most inviting appearance, fall flowers being employed including gladioli, callendulas as cosmos.

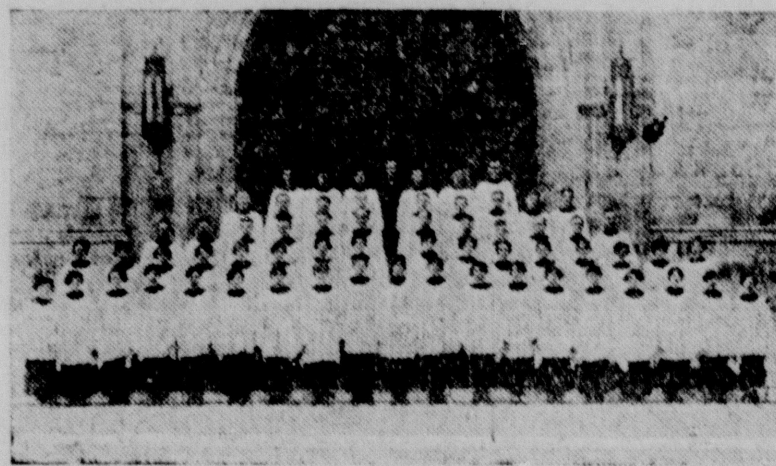

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Blum won the first favors for gentlemen and ladies, at bridge. Mrs. Joe Shevman of Stillman Valley was awarded the consolation favor for the ladies and John Charters of Ashton won the like favor for the gentlemen.

Later in the evening a tempting two course luncheon was served completing the pleasure of everyone present.

C. C. Circle Spent Enjoyable Evening

On Thursday evening the C. C. Circle of the Christian church spent a most delightful evening at the Rice home on Lincoln Way, the Misses Nellie and Stella Rice and Mrs. Clark Rickard being hostesses. There were twenty-five guests in attendance. The home was prettily decorated in au-

POINTERS FOR PARENTS

Suppose you were suddenly to be transported to another planet.

Suppose, stepping off your skyboat you should behold such wonders that your five special senses were incapable of comprehension.

People, without doubt, would be different in this new world and so would animals and flowers and even the very grass. The grass, if there were any, might be blue, or red or pink, owing to the chemistry of the soil.

The people might have six or eight legs, like spiders, and eat twice a year instead of three times a day. Buildings might be elastic, vibrating like bowls of gelatin near a motor.

Where you had known placement and solidity on Old Friend Earth, there you might find everything in motion—floating, fluid, restless. There and stare and remain mute? Not unless you were dumb, and deaf and blind.

You wouldn't wait to go to an information bureau. I doubt if you would even tap the corner policeman on the shoulder and begin politely, "Will you please tell me—"

No. You'd blurt out to the first person within earshot, "What have these people got so many legs for? Why do they need four eyes? Why don't they walk instead of bounce? Why is your grass blue? Why don't your buildings stand still? Why do your cows have wings and why do you milk your birds."

No doubt the Old Timer you tackled would glare at you out of his four green eyes and bounce huffily off on his eight feet and snap over his shoulder, "Don't ask so many questions. Can't you see for yourself. I didn't know anyone could ask so many questions!"

Children are just as new in this world as you would be in that planet. They learn in three ways: by asking questions, by reading, and by experience. By asking questions they get their greatest fund of information. They should be answered, always.

If your child possesses this quality, encourage it all you can.

Mrs. Joseph Petersberger and daughter, Mrs. Guss Byrd entertained on Thursday evening at 5:30 o'clock at their home with a delightful bridge tea, entertaining at this time forty-five guests. HE PROBABLY WILL NEVER FLIRT AGAIN—

Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—When Moran (or was it Mack?) said "scat!" he wasn't fooling; and when Marie Santore last night yelled "police!" neither was she.

The action was fast. Marie was walking along. A man flirted. She screamed "police!" Within ten seconds there arrived 112—count 'em, 112—policemen. Floyd Hatcher was arrested.

The secret of this police speed lay in the fact that Miss Santore happened to be passing detective headquarters when she screamed, and the 112 policemen happened to be mobilized to march to the Armory where Gov. Alfred E. Smith was to speak.

TUNIC THEME
A taupe printed velvet uses the long tunic theme with pointed ends finishing it. It is slightly fitted in semi-princess manner.

YELLOW BACK

New color combinations appear in the sports wear field. An English ensemble is of hand-woven black homespun, shot with four tones of yellow, while the angora sweater blouse is the brightest yellow.

NEW NIGHTGIE

A lovely hand-made nightgown of white Ninon has a circular berth and a deep circular flounce edged in wide black shadow lace.

HAND WORK

Fine handwork makes many a frock smart this season. Fagotting, hemstitching, rolled edges, delicate embroidery and narrow hand-made lace edges are excellent.

FUR HEM

A princess evening gown, of beige satin, flares in circular fullness below the hips, dipping to floor length in the rear. The entire hem is of dark brown fur. The shoulder straps are jewelled.

LACE TIE

The square neck of a slate blue velvet frock has a lace tie attached at the center of each side. The lace ties in a slip knot, with its ends hanging to the wasteline.

MUFFLED EARS

Hats are off the eyes but the ears must be muffled. A drooping crimson solei hat has two little fur ear muffs, like semi-bandeau, over the ears.

HOOVER KNOWS ABOUT LABOR AND FARMING.

It is becoming harder each year for those candidates to "get by" whose principal assets are an ability to slap backs and kiss babies.

Today's voters read newspapers, magazines and books and they are more widely informed upon every subject of public interest than ever before. Along with this better information has come a disposition on the part of many to resent the attitude of easy familiarity toward them on the part of candidates. Friendliness they expect, of course, but not gush.

Also the voters are beginning to ask embarrassing questions of even the most gushing aspirants for office. Thus if one running for an office declares himself to be the undying champion of labor, those who earn their living by the sweat of their brows are prone to inquire, "What do you know about labor? We observe no callouses on your hands."

Herbert Hoover could not be embarrassed by such questions. He has toiled in the mines, labored as a collector of laundry, built great engineering works in America and abroad, pounded the keys of a typewriter for fifty dollars a month, worked on a farm and now owns farms.

But equally important is the record of Mr. Hoover both in public and private life as it concerns agriculture and labor. To him the labor and farm situations are interwoven. In an address over the radio in Denver, Col., October 24, 1924, Mr. Hoover said:

"The maintenance of proper wages and conditions of living through processes of collective bargaining has been and should be one of the bulwarks of labor. But behind all this must be a strong economic system and sane policies of government, or these things come to naught.

"Collective bargaining will not provide employment for the unemployed. Wages and comfort do not increase with unemployment. FARM PRICES FALL WITH THE INABILITY OF MEN TO BUY.

"I for one, am willing to trust the organized American workers to take care of their wages if we can keep our economic system in so healthy a condition that there is a job for every man.

"The first necessity to every woman is that her man shall have a job.

"Organized labor cannot do its constructive work if one cannot pay the groceryman. The farmer cannot sell his produce to people out of a job."

BAD GUESSES BY EXPERTS.

Sports writers are, notoriously, prone to err when they try to pick the winner of an important prize fight. The number of bad guesses centering about the first Dempsey-Tunney fight is still fresh in the public memory.

But it might be pointed out that political experts, as far as the present campaign is concerned, are in a sad plight also. After reading a number of prognostications, one is forced to the conclusion that most of them simply haven't an idea of what's going to happen.

The other day two New York papers printed analytical stories of the effects of Governor Smith's first western tour. One paper, The World, Democratic, announced that Republican headquarters were shivering with fear, that they already conceded Smith Wisconsin, North Dakota and South Dakota and that they feared more states would follow. The other, The Herald-Tribune, Republican, asserted that the campaign tour had been a flop, and that Republican leaders were now satisfied that Smith could not carry a single state in the northwest.

What is a bewildered voter to do in such a case? Apparently each "expert" quoted here was simply letting his conscience be his guide. And so, one may guess, it will continue to be, down to the end of the campaign.

An inspired headline writer announces that the Byrd South Pole trip will reveal the last of the world's great secrets. Ah! the reason why a pedestrian tries to beat an automobile at the intersection.

A wife, her mother and her grandmother sued for divorces in the same week. If they all were married to the same man that would be news.

Apple growers now urge everyone to eat two apples a day. Probably the theory is that the more doctors you keep away the better.

Scientists are finding substitutes for gasoline, rubber and all that, but what this country needs is something to say instead of "I'll say so."

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

It was a thrilling sight to see the Tinymites sailing merrily right through the air upon their plane. "Say, this is great," cried one. "But I just can't understand why we don't flop right down and land. This is about the queerest thing to me beneath the sun."

Then up spoke Scouty Tinymite. "Why, shucks, this plane is built just right to ride the breeze. That's why we do not take a sudden flop. You see, if it were balanced wrong, we couldn't make it sail along."

"Two of us right over sideways and then whirl around and drop!" And then they noticed, down below, that trees and fields began to show. Said Clowny, "Look! We're heading down. No doubt we're going to land. But not a thing will go amiss if we keep sailing just like this. If we arrive in some new place that surely will be grand."

The plane soared with apparent ease until the tops of many trees began to brush against it. Then poor Clowny said, "Oh, dear, I'm rather frightened. What will be our fate if we land in a tree. I wish that we would miss the trees and sail out in the clear."

Just at that moment they all found that they had slightly swung around. The plane was shortly headed for a great big open space. Then Carpy shouted, loud, "Oh, gee! I think we're headed toward the sea." By now a touch of crimson showed on every Tiny's face.

Down, down the plane went slow but sure. "Our chance," said Copy, "seems real poor. I think we'll get a ducking. All our hopes have been in vain." Each Tiny heaved a awful sigh. The waves below were washing high, and now and then they'd spatter up against the little plane.

(Guess who comes to the Tiny's rescue in the next story.)

Washington, Oct. 20—No campaign ever saw the issue between "Big Business" and the "common people" so closely drawn as the Bryan-McKinley fight of 1896.

Panic-stricken at the thought of the "Boy Orator of the Platte" reaching the White House, the industrial and financial east clipped in with an unprecedented campaign fund of $16,500,000 to defeat the radicals of the east and west.

The country was so thoroughly saturated with propaganda to the effect that Republican victory meant prosperity and a Democratic administration panics and hard times that the Democratic party still is forced to fight that theory.

Bryan lived to see many of his proposed reforms enacted into law, bank notes based on something less material than silver, an inflation which gave the country something like a 30-cent dollar instead of the 50-cent dollar he was charged with advocating, and many more radical innovations than he dreamed of in his first campaign.

Panic Hurts Cleveland.
Bryan took the party away from President Cleveland, whose second administration was marked by panic and business paralysis. The party in power was naturally blamed. Both parties were split on silver and the currency chaos, which no one had yet been wise or strong enough to settle, added to the general confusion.

When a Republican Congress was elected in 1894 the Republicans soon began to say they could "nominate a rag doll" and win the presidency.

They nominated McKinley at St. Louis. His principal opponent was Speaker Thomas B. Reed of Maine, who was supported by Roosevelt and Lodge. Elaborate and expensive pre-convention campaigns were made for both, but Mark Hanna made the best one for McKinley. He was an iron and coal operator who had retired to devote himself to politics exclusively.

Hanna reduced politics to an absolute science. In 1895 he started out to weed out all boss candidates and favorite sons. Sometimes he made deals; sometimes he beat the bosses at their own game. He put young Charles G. Dawes to work for him, and Dawes won the Illinois state convention for McKinley after the job had been thought hopeless.

Gold-Silver Battle
Hanna urged a straddling plank on the money question, as eastern states were against silver and western states, particularly mining states, were for it. A battle royal followed and the convention voted overwhelmingly for the gold standard.

The Democrats were also split on silver, but with them the silver wing was strongest. The Free Silver movement was primarily a combination of mortgaged farmers and the mining states, with an appeal to many wage earners. It demanded unlimited coinage of silver with the ratio of 16 ounces of silver to one of gold. Since silver was worth less than 16 to 1, measured in terms of gold coin, this would have cheapened the currency. Naturally, the debtor class was strong for that and the creditor class violently against it. Because the latter class proved most powerful we now have the gold standard along with the rest of the world. The east was for gold, the west and south for silver and the important midwestern states became a battle ground.

Cleveland was a strong gold standard man and hoped to beat the radicals at the '96 Chicago convention. But Democratic conventions in 30 states had howled for silver and many new leaders demanded a strong silver plank if only to win over the Populists, who had grown enormously and in some western state outnumbered both old parties.

Bryan, already noted for his pro-silver speeches in Congress and regarded in the west as a Messiah, had been working for the nomination for two years. A gold delegation from Nebraska was unseated and Bryan and his silverites given its place.

Immortal Words.
The climax came when "the boy orator" threw defiance in the enemy's teeth and summoned the lowly to battle under the silver standard against "this crown of thorns" and "a cross of gold." Sweeping aside the old-line eastern Democrats they voted down gold two to one and repudiated Cleveland's administration by refusing to commend it.

The convention gave Bryan 500 on the fifth ballot and quickly added the few votes needed to meet the two-thirds rule.

Arthur Sewall of Maine was named for vice president and Republicans called the ticket "Brine and Swill" just as they called McKinley the "Advance Agent of Prosperity."

It appeared first as if there would be no eastern Democrats and no western Republicans. The Populist and National Silver parties also nominated Bryan. Gold Democrats seceded and nominated John M. Palmer and General Simon Buckner. Many later voted for McKinley, offsetting the large swing of silver Republicans to Bryan. The Republicans and the eastern banking-commercial interests were in a panic for a time, however, lest Bryan win with the south and the west.

The campaign had two outstanding features.

One was Bryan's remarkable 18,000 mile speaking tour, the greatest personal campaign in history. He made hundreds of speeches and hundreds of thousands flocked to see him and hear his golden voice.

Floods Country

The other was the brilliant campaign waged by Hanna. While crowds flocked from afar to hear McKinley's front porch speeches at Canton, O., Hanna appealed to bankers and business men to protect on corporations, banks and insurance companies on the basis of the party's stand for "sound money" and protective tariffs. Standard Oil forked over $250,000. Banks were assessed one-fourth of one per cent of their capital. Andrew W. Mellon helped collect assessments. The total is unknown, but generally estimated at $16,500,000.

With this money Hanna sent out 1400 speakers and 120,000,000 pieces of literature to disprove Bryan's case.

McKinley's popular majority was 600,000 in 14,000,000 votes. He took the east, midwest and part of the northwest by big majorities, including some formerly Democratic border states as against former Republican western states which went for Bryan. Bryan had the south and everything west of Mississippi, except California and Oregon. The farmers had taken their great political licking.

The popular and electoral vote.
McKinley 7,111,000 271
Bryan 6,509,000 176
Palmer had 133,000; Levering, Prohibitionist, 132,000; Matchett, Socialist, 36,000, and Bentley of the Free Eliver Prohibitionist faction, 14,000.

MONDAY: McKinley and Taft.

THE HOOVER FARM RELIEF PLAN

Sioux City (Iowa) Journal

An analysis of the Hoover plan for farm relief made by Prof. J. P. Cox, dean of the Michigan State College of Agriculture, holds that the Republican candidate for the Presidency has offered something that goes farther than anything proposed by the most militant advocates of special legislation for this purpose. The Hoover plan, in Prof. Cox's opinion, "involves all the basic principles agreed on at the Des Moines conference of January, 1926, and goes farther than the resolutions of this conference, or of the committee of 22, and the McNary-Haugen bill."

Professor Cox's analysis of the Hoover plan for farm relief shows that it proposes the following:

"1. A federal farm board to work with farm co-operatives.
"2. Government assistance and an initial advance of capital to enable the agricultural industry to reach the status of modern business operations by which the farmer may attain his independence and maintain his individuality, suggesting the use of several hundred million dollars if necessary to initiate effective surplus control.

"3. A great inland waterways improvement program, including completion of the St. Lawrence route to the sea and the Mississippi waterway for cheap and effective transportation to domestic and foreign markets.

"4. The greatest possible utilization of the protective tariff for agriculture.

"5. Placing agriculture on a parity with other industries, not only industrially, but by effective means, but in other respects."

Professor Cox participated in the Des Moines conference, and has been a constant worker for an improvement in the farm situation. But he submits that the Hoover plan "is a program that goes farther than any previously considered, even by those of us who initiated and carried on the definite proposals of farm relief at and following the Des Moines conference."

Shippers Urged to Use State Waterway

business men were urged to be prepared to avail themselves of the advantages of the improved Illinois waterways by William F. Mulvihill, Supervisor of Construction, at a waterways luncheon given by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce today.

Practically the entire series of improvement projects has been completed or placed under construction during the last three years, he said, and merchants and shippers should be ready to avail themselves of the nine foot navigable channel from Chicago to New Orleans which, he was assured, will be opened by the spring of 1931.

"The achievements include completion of the Marseilles and Lockport lock jobs, previously contracted for," Mr. Mulvihill related; "the acquiring by purchase or condemnation of nearly 3,000 acres of right of way; the awarding of contracts for construction of the Starved Rock lock and dam; for digging the Marseilles canal, to by-pass the present dam and thus connect the Illinois river above the dam with the completed lock, which is 13,000 feet downstream; for dredging in the open river in all pools between Joliet and Starved Rock, and for erection and installation of all lock gates and operating machinery."

The state has also undertaken a $5,000,000 Brandon Road pool project near Joliet, and contracts for five new bridges over the DesPlaines river at Joliet will be submitted soon. Mr. Mulvihill expected the Dresden Island lock and dam, last of the series, to be under construction late this year or by early spring.

Governor Pardons Indiana Dry Chief

Indianapolis, Ind. Oct. 19—(AP)—

Governor Ed. Jackson today issued a pardon for Dr. E. S. Shumaker, Superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, who this morning was taken to the state penal farm to begin serving a sixty day sentence for contempt of the Indiana Supreme Court. The pardon was issued before Dr. Shumaker had reached the state farm at Putnamville. It was given, according to Pliny Wolford, Secretary to the Governor, because the Governor believed the penalty "excessive."

Dr. Shumaker, however, will have to pay the $250 fine assessed by the Supreme Court in addition to the sixty day sentence.

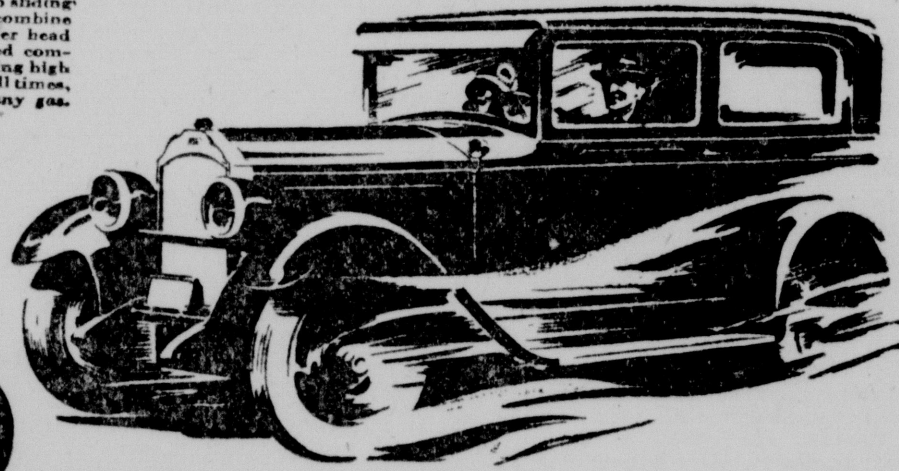

The head of the dry league in Indiana was found guilty nearly two years ago of contempt of the Supreme annual report of the league. The re-Court for statements contained in the report criticised the decisions of members of the court in certain liquor cases.

Shumaker sought for more than two years to escape serving the sentence, but yesterday abandoned his fight against the sentence.

Obituary

John W. Dierdorff, son of the late Elder Daniel and Mary Dierdorff, was born near Gettysburg, Pa., Aug. 11, 1849 and died in Mt. Morris, Ill., Oct. 3rd, 1928, aged 79 years, 1 month and 15 days. He came to Franklin Grove with his parents when he was one year old, where he grew to manhood. December 22, 1872 he was married to Hannah Shafer. To this union were born eight children, one of whom, Stella Viola, died in infancy. The surviving are: Charles of Riverside, Calif.; Vinna and Mrs. Mable Allen, who resided at home and cared for him in his illness; Mrs. Flora Plum of Polo; Mrs. Olive Miller, of Syracuse, Ind.; Virgil of Mt. Morris, and Russell of West Milford, N. J.

There are thirteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren; also one brother, Daniel Dierdorff, of North Dakota. Three sisters preceded him to the Glory World, Sue Reiff in 1918, Matilda Buck in 1925 and Mary White. At the age of twenty-three he joined the Church of the Brethren and was a loyal and faithful member until the Master called him higher. He was elected to the ministry but was rather reserved in his manner and never took an active part in the ministry, but his quiet, exemplary life was more powerful than his sermons. He served as Sunday school superintendent in a most efficient way for a number of years in the West Branch church. He lived ten years in Kansas, but spent most of his life in northern Illinois, having lived in Mt. Morris the past 24 years. Though quiet and unassuming, he will be greatly missed by his family, friends and neighbors, and most of all by his wife, to whom he was a constant companion and comfort since her affliction over two years ago. Death was due to a complication of diseases, from which he suffered several years. Interment was made in the Emmert cemetery west of this place. Dr. Dierdorff was an uncle to Rev. O. D. Buck and Ira Buck of this place.

Mrs. Clara Shenk of Chicago visited.

Illinois Weekly Political Review

By ALLEN L. DALRYMPLE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Republicans have an opportunity next week to counteract the effect of some of the big Democratic callers in the state the last fortnight.

Charles Evans Hughes is to make an address here Wednesday night, which the Republicans hope will offset that last night of Governor Alfred E. Smith. The party leaders are also counting on the possibility of a stop here by Herbert Hoover when the presidential nominee goes to Palo Alto.

None will deny that Governor Smith, passing through the heart of the state and spending two and a half days in Chicago, again put the Democrats in the limelight. His receptions at Alton, Springfield, Bloomington and Joliet were capped in Chicago by a fifty mile drive over the city's boulevards and his speech last night. For four hours the Governor waved, bowed and smiled at enthusiastic Chicagoans, the procession drawing up in front of his hotel barely in time to permit the Governor to change clothes and dine before his evening address—the last of his southern swing.

The Governor's schedule called for his departure shortly before noon today for Albany, N. Y. He hoped to arrive home Sunday afternoon in time for a round of golf.

Not all attention was on the center Smith ring, however, for the state candidates of both parties were busy in outlining plans.

A record vote at the election, probably more than 1,500 in Chicago alone, is indicated by a heavy registration in Illinois. Springfield reported an all time record enrollment of 36,040.

Republican and Democratic meetings in Cook county are totaling approximately forty a day, and radio is keeping the air full of campaign speeches. The Republican meetings are under the supervision of two factions, one headed by United States Senator Charles S. Deneen and the other by the Mayor Thompson-State's Attorney Crowe alliance.

The former group was successful in electing most of its candidates at the April primary, although the latter retained the party machinery so the two are conducting separate campaigns.

Southerners Protest Talk of Race Issue

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—University presidents, ministers, business leaders and others prominent in the life of the south joined today in voicing protest against "injection of the race question into the present political campaign."

In a statement bearing signatures of 45 men and women, it was asserted that the declaration was intended to be entirely non-partisan, and added that the race issue had been raised "by partisans of both sides, who for the purpose of driving voters into their respective camps are, in our judgment, reopening the healing wounds of bitterness and hate."

BY ALAN J. GOULD

Associated Press Sports Writer
Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The mental angle, psychology, the jinx, or whatever it may be labelled, adds to the current complications of college football.

It played quite a part in the advance-dope on today's games, which involved the most widespread tests of championship aspirations so far in the 1928 campaign.

Georgia Tech for instance, in this southern stronghold of football, sent its forces out to chase the jinx that Notre Dame has appeared to hold over the Yellow Jackets. The Irish have captured this intersectional tilt for the past six years but today they run up against a powerful Tech array, imbued with new confidence.

Likewise in other big battles of the day Army hoped to chase away the memory of defeats at Harvard's hands, while out on the west coast California sought to shake off its bad luck of recent years at the expense of Southern California.

These games, along with Nebraska-Syracuse, Michigan-Ohio State, Alabama-Tennessee, Vanderbilt-Tulane, Pennsylvania-Penn State, Yale-Brown and a flock of other involving old rivals, occupied the spotlight of an eventful day.

So far it has been difficult for the experts to pick the outstanding eleven in any sector with any degree of assurance.

When ordinarily top ranking outfits like the Navy and Michigan go this far without a victory between them and comparative little fellows such as Davis-Elkins and Centenary spring to prominence, it illustrates the pitfalls of experting.

Today's skirmishes, however, appeared certain to clear much of the atmosphere.

The Army-Harvard, Penn-Penn State, Yale-Brown, Bucknell-LaFayette and Dartmouth-Columbia games are figured to give a better line on eastern tie hopes.

Of the six undefeated members of the Western Conference "Big Ten," two—Indiana and Illinois—were bracketed for the day. Ohio State, Wisconsin and Minnesota all faced Western conference teams in Michigan, Purdue and Chicago, respectively, while Iowa stepped outside the fold to meet Ripon.

ILLINOI GET TEST
Champaign, Ill., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Coach Bob Zuppke's champion Illini met their first test of the Big Ten's 1928 gridiron campaign today by tackling one of the best eleven to wear the crimson of Indiana.

The contest between these two unbeaten eleven was considered the most outstanding of the Conference's program. Twenty-five thousand had seats for the battle, the first between the two schools since 1914 when Illinois won 51 to 0.

Despite Indiana's great showing in defeating Oklahoma and Michigan, Illinois was a favorite. The coach, Pat Page of the Hoosiers, who has been busy upsetting fighting mood and determined to come through with an upset. Illinois has played well in its two non-conference games and appeared to have the same type of machine-like play that won the Big Ten title last year.

It has been an even quarter century since Indiana triumphed over the Illini on the football field, although there was a draw in 1911.

KENTUCKY VS PURPLE
Chicago, Oct. 20.—(AP)—South and north renewed their gridiron rivalry at Duane Stadium today when Kentucky's giant team tackled the lighter but shifter Northwestern eleven before upwards of 30,000 spectators.

Today's invasion was the fourth of the Big Ten in as many seasons for the Kentuckians. They were defeated by Chicago in 1925 and lost to Indiana in 1926 and 1927.

WAILS OF ROCKNE FOR IRISH GET NO SYMPATHY

FIGHTING "IRISH"

It is generally believed by football fans the country over that regardless of the many obstacles in his way, Knute Rockne will have an outstanding football eleven representing Notre Dame. Loss of veterans, lack of material, lack of outstanding stars—those cries mean nothing to the admirer of Rockne. Most of those think all the sage of South Bend has to do is to say presto! and his team will be an outstanding one.

Anyway, Rockne has warned the world not to expect much of his Notre Dame outfit this fall. But no one is taking that warning very seriously, especially the opponents the Irish will face.

Thistlethwaite's powerful Wisconsin eleven in a homecoming game here. The Boilermaker gridmen have a double incentive—to avenge for last week's defeat at Minnesota and to take a Hoosier revenge for the trouncing the Badgers gave Notre Dame early in the season.

Harris to Tigers

Detroit, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Appointment of Stanley (Bucky) Harris as manager of the Detroit American League baseball team was announced today by Frank J. Navin, president of the local club. Harris, who led the Washington American League team to two pennants and a world's championship title, succeeds George Moriarity, whose resignation was announced this week.

The length of the Harris' contract and its financial terms were withheld.

Amboy Wins Fourth
Straight Victory

Amboy township high school's fast and furious football team, one of the outstanding threats of the Rock River Valley Conference, to which it was admitted this year, continued its victorious ways Friday afternoon with a startling victory over the Morrison high school outfit, winning handily 26 to 0. It was the Amboy team's fourth straight victory of the season, and showed a steam-roller organization that is bound to give all of the conference teams something to think about this year.

A good crowd witnessed the contest, which was played on the Amboy gridiron, and saw the home boys display their wares without a hitch. The first half saw Amboy romp away to an early lead, and while Morrison strengthened somewhat in the second half, they were unable to threaten the home team's goal.

Joe Finn and LaVerne Finch in the backfield were the outstanding stars of the afternoon and the crisp wind appeared to bolster up the entire team and the big crowd of fans witnessed one of the best games of the season. Amboy came through without any serious injuries and next week will go into extensive training for their next game with the Mendota team, aspirants for the championship of the Rock River Valley conference. Several from Dixon went to Amboy yesterday afternoon and witnessed the contest.

Bombing Suspect

Marion, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Delbert O'Neil, war veteran and one time candidate for mayor of Herrin was arrested this morning for questioning in connection with the bombing of the Catholic church here last night.

O'Neil was seen to leave the vicinity of the church just at the time of the bombing. Authorities said he was unable to give a very clear account of himself.

The church was bombed at 6:30 last night by a heavy charge of explosive, believed to have been dynamite. The stairs to the basement were damaged and four windows shattered. The church was dedicated eleven months ago.

Rockne, to be frank, hasn't much left from his 1927 eleven. John Niemiec, his best back, will be saved as much as possible in all games. Jack Chevigny and Jack Elder, the latter a track star, are his first string halfbacks and Denny Shay is his field general this year. Fred Miller, the son of a Milwaukee millionaire, plays tackle and is captain of the team. George Leping is a guard of some experience.

These are the men who will bear the brunt of the Notre Dame attack this year.

MONEY TO LOAN

COST REDUCED
Almost One-Third
ON
LOANS $10 TO $300

The Household Finance Corporation, by reason of large volume of business, efficient management, and favorable credit facilities, attained after fifty years of operation, is now making a very substantial reduction in the cost of loans up to $300.

You can borrow from us for about one-third less than we formerly charged, and about one-third less than the maximum lawful rate. For example, total cost on $50 for one month is $1.25; for five months, paid in five equal monthly payments, is $3.75. All other amounts up to $300 at the same proportionate rate.

If you have a loan elsewhere, let us explain our new reduced rate and tell you how much you will save by borrowing from us.

You get the money without delay, return it in small monthly payments, arranged to suit your convenience. Each payment of principal reduces the interest.

No Endorsers. No one need know. Our service is personal and confidential. We do not notify your employer, neither do we make inquiries of your friends, relatives or tradespeople.

RUTH DEWEY GROVES AUTHOR OF "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO" etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

JERRY RAY decides that love is a delusion and makes up her mind to marry for money. She works in a store and denies herself petty luxuries in order to save for a vacation at Atlantic City in "the best hotel." But her money is stolen the night before her departure and she is stunned by the loss. Nothing remains but to go camping with her roommate, MYRTLE, on the north shore of Long Island.

But their camp is wrecked the next evening when an airplane crashes into it. Wealthy young ALESTER CARSTAIRS, from an adjoining estate, was taking a lesson from his pilot, DAN HARRY. They escape injury, also Myrtle, but Dan picks Jerry up unconscious from a blow on the head. He is holding her in his arms when she comes to. Then Alester sends him for the doctor and pays Myrtle for the damage done.

The doctor finds Jerry not seriously injured, but decides to make a full examination at his office next day. Both men offer to drive her there and Jerry accepts Alester because of his money, although her heart belongs to Dan. She is amazed when he hands her a hundred-dollar bill next day to pay the doctor's fee.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V

SHE must not argue with Alester. Carstairs about money, Jerry told herself.

"Lucky for you I didn't break an arm," she said.

"I'm glad you didn't, of course," he replied, "but I'd be happy to assume any liability I might incur with you."

Jerry was slightly confused by his remark, and her confusion annoyed her. He hadn't done anything to cause her to add a double meaning to the things he said. She turned quickly toward the house—Dr. Belden's office was in his residence.

Alester smiled as he watched her go.

"Not so dumb," he told himself complacently.

When Jerry returned she handed him some folded up bills.

"Thirty-two dollars," she said, meaning the change. "What is Dr. Belden, a billionaire?"

"He's a renowned surgeon," Alester told her. "What did he say about you?"

He took the money because something in Jerry's manner made him realize that he could not pay for her injury with dollars, except as she would pay for it. The other girl had accepted his check for $150 a little too eagerly. He was glad Jerry was different. Such girls as she, those who scorned small change, usually wanted something worth while, he believed. He liked costly things himself—even expensive playmates.

"I'm not to have any excitement for a while," Jerry said, and laughed softly.

EXCITEMENT! Why, not 45 hours back the bottom fell out of her world and it had been a tragedy. And now she knew that it had dropped her right into an entirely new universe, a universe that hitherto had been only a dream to her.

"In that case I'll have to see that you're kept quiet," Alester assured her promptly. "Can't go back to camp. Dan's taking the plane over to the hangar, I think. No room to take it off where it is."

Jerry wished he hadn't mentioned Dan. For the moment he was out of her mind. She'd been getting a tremendous kick out of spinning along on a work day in a car that would have drawn a crowd even if it had been parked on Fifth Avenue.

Thought of Dan dispelled some of her thrill. She didn't want him to think that she had refused his offer to bring her to Dr. Belden's simply because Alester could not pay for more gold . . . but that was precisely why she had refused him!

Jerry thought he must be deeply interested in her to want to know so much about her.

"We'll drive out to Port Jefferson and drop in for tea at the Rolling Stone Inn on our way back," Alester was saying. The prospect of a drive appealed to Jerry—perhaps a sense of motion and constantly changing scenes would help her to think as she wanted to think.

There had been days when she worked in the humid, breathless atmosphere of Fane's on which she'd been tempted to gamble with her soul at stake for a drive like this.

The sweeping, wooded hills, the sudden descents upon little harbor villages, the landscaped grounds of beautiful estates, the luxury and speed of the high-powered motor car—all were exquisitely new to Jerry. They seemed to release a wellspring of emotion, to cause her to feel as if she were fairly soaring over the earth.

And yet her elation was dimmed by a troubled conscience—she felt she had been ungrateful to one who had been tender toward her.

At Port Jefferson they turned back, inland, and drove far beyond the speed limit on their way to the inn. Jerry thought of many coal black steeds charging furiously ahead of them. This man-made thing under the hood held power equal to nearly a hundred horses' strength, Alester had told her.

She was both surprised and put at ease when Alester turned the nose of his car in at the approach to what looked like a private home such as they had passed by the dozen. A shingle on the house bore the name, also Jerry would not have been certain that they were at their destination.

Alester parked the car on a pebbled space and helped Jerry out. She saw, on closer inspection, that the place was more impressive than she had thought at first. There was a fountain in a more or less formal garden and as they approached the entrance the door swung open for them and a burly colored man in uniform greeted Alester familiarly.

Jerry surmised that he must be a frequent visitor here. And for an instant she felt that the doorman regarded her in what might have been surprise or confusion or alarm. She could not decide which.

THEY were shown to a pleasantly placed table on a screened porch. Jerry noted that it had a more luxuriant centerpiece than the other tables. It seemed, in a way she could not define, to be a special table. The waiter hadn't exactly shown them to it, but when he led the way to that end of the porch Alester had indicated that they would sit there.

Again it seemed to Jerry that she inspired something like consternation when the waiter glanced at her.

ATTORNEY WINN REPRESENTS REP. NAT. COMMITTEE

Has Been Appointed Co.
Director by Chairman of District

Mr. William H. Winn of Dixon, has been appointed county director of the Republican national committee, western division, of which Hubert Work is chairman and James W. Good western manager. W. T. Rawleigh of Freeport, Illinois, is chairman of this Congressional district comprising the counties of Stephenson, Jo Daviess, Carroll, Whiteside, Lee and Ogle. He has chosen William H. Winn to have charge of securing both large and small contributions in Dixon and Lee county. In requesting the larger contributions from business and professional men, Mr. Winn is working under the direction of Mr. Rawleigh. James D. Cunningham and Charles Piez, as members of the finance committee of Illinois, are organizing the state out-of-state of Chicago. They have recently appointed fifty men in certain geographical locations as resident chairmen, each of whom will be expected to raise funds for the committee. The finance committee of Illinois is composed of the following members: William McCormick Blair, James D. Cunningham, B. A. Eckhart, Albert P. Lamont, C. M. Noderwell, John W. O'Leary, James A. Patton, Charles Piez, Julius Rosenwald, Charles W. Seabury, Silas H. Strawn, Lawrence H. Whiting.

Small Contributions Acceptable
In raising small subscriptions of from $1.00 to $10.00 in Illinois, Mr. Winn reports that Mr. Hoover would like to have as large a number of small contributors as possible because he thinks that all citizens who can afford to do so should make small contributions to help defray necessary campaign expenses. These include hotel and traveling expenses, opening and maintaining headquarters, mailing and distributing printed matter, and for speakers, hall rent, etc.

In the last election Illinois raised only about $30,000. This year the committee is trying to raise $100,000 outside of Chicago including both large and small contributions. The quota of small contributions of Lee county is 800 individual subscriptions. Any amount from a dime to a dollar will be received with thanks; but it is expected that most of the small subscriptions will be from one to ten dollars.

Of course well-to-do persons and professional men will no doubt desire to make larger contributions, but no one will be urged or even expected to contribute more than, everything considered, he feels he is willing to give. District Chairman, W. T. Rawleigh has had a lot of experience in this line, because four years ago he was chairman of the national LaFollette-for-President committee and treasurer of the LaFollette-Wheeler Joint National committee for which he received and acknowledged over $238,000 through the mail—mostly in small contributions.

In an interview recently Mr. Rawleigh said: "Heretofore the Republican and Democratic parties have depended upon the wealthy men of the country for their campaign contributions and as everyone knows they have collected many millions of dollars during every campaign from a comparatively few, mostly well-to-do individuals. "But in this campaign it seems both the republican and democratic parties are not only expecting large contributions but are making a special effort to secure small contributions from everyone.

"This should have a wholesome effect upon both parties and should make them more responsive to the voters—their creators.

"Of course, all thoughtful persons recognize the necessity of doing everything they can to encourage and help secure good local state and national government; because it is needed for the protection of individual rights, liberty, and that equality of opportunity so essential for every member of society. The local, state and national affairs are governed by the party nominees. Every citizen has a vote in the nominations and elections. I can think of no good reason why everyone should not contribute his mite towards helping to pay his party's campaign expenses, and while experience has shown that it requires lots of time and effort to collect a large number of small contributions by personal solicitation and mail order methods, it seems nearly everyone should make at least a small subscription.

"Therefore instead of sending out men and women to solicit all towns and rural districts, it has been decided to give everyone an opportunity to make a small subscription without being annoyed, when they are busy, by solicitors calling on them and asking them to make contributions which some of them cannot afford to give."

May Mail Remittances
In another column of today's paper you will find an advertisement and a remittance form which is printed especially for the convenience of farmers and others to mail their contributions direct to the county director. All the principal factories, business places and banks at Freeport and all banks of Stephenson county have agreed to receive and receipt for contributions; and the county director requests that all banks and at least one business house in each town in this county also receipt contributions. Mr. William H. Winn expects to call at all such banks and business houses with a supply of contribution cards and printed matter now promptly.

Each person making a donation to the Republican campaign fund is sent a nice certificate by the national committee. Your contribution will be much appreciated by the national committee, by those who are assisting in the work and by the resident chairman.

As the committee has very large expenditures every day now and funds are needed to pay bills as they become due, prompt responses from all who desire to make contributions will be appreciated.

WRECK IN OHIO
Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Several passengers were reported slightly hurt when Pennsylvania passenger train No. 835 left the rails at Galena, 18 miles north of Columbus today. Railroad officials said it was believed spreading or broken rails caused the wreck. The locomotive and the four cars making up the train left the track and overturned. Reports reaching here said that a considerable number of the 35 passengers aboard were slightly hurt; suffering mostly from bruises and slight lacerations.

In an interview recently Mr. Rawleigh said: "Heretofore the Republican and Democratic parties have depended upon the wealthy men of the country for their campaign contributions and as everyone knows they have collected many millions of dollars during every campaign from a comparatively few, mostly well-to-do individuals. "But in this campaign it seems both the republican and democratic parties are not only expecting large

Curious Facts About Presidents

BRYAN'S FAMOUS

"CROSS OF GOLD"
William Jennings Bryan's famous "Cross of Gold" speech at the 1896 Democratic convention was a plea for laborers, farmers, miners and small merchants, many of whom were in a pitiable plight.

"It is for these that we speak," he said. "We do not come as aggressors. Ours is not a war of conquest. We are fighting in defense of our homes, our families and our posterity. We have petitioned and our petitions have been scorned. We have entreated and our entreaties have been disregarded. We have begged and they have mocked when our calamity came. We beg no longer; we entreat no more; we petition no more. We defy them."

"We shall answer their demands for a gold standard by saying to them: 'You shall not press down upon the brow of labor this crown of thorns. You shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold!'"

I. O. O. F. MEET OVER

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Adjournment today of the two-day meeting of Patriarchs Militant and its auxiliary will bring to a close the conventions of orders of I. O. O. F. which have been in activity here for a week. This order will hold its 1929 convention in Danville, and the experiment of holding their meeting coincident with that of other orders of the lodge was voted a failure.

Community House at Sycamore Open

Sycamore, Ill., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Farmers should organize with community spirit on a national scale if they are to have a just part in solving their own problems. Sam H. Thompson, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said today at an opening celebration of Sycamore Community Hall.

"The American farmer," said Mr. Thompson, "is confronted with conditions which threaten to force him to lower his standard of living. The trouble is due to the fact that the farmer is unable to obtain an American price for the product of his labor."

"The inequality of agriculture has been brought forcibly to the attention of the nation and Congress has recognized its importance by doing what organized farmers have deemed necessary. Unfortunately for us, our plan was not approved by the present administration, but the question of an American policy for agriculture is still of outstanding importance to the welfare of America."

The farm leader said that an American farm policy could meet the needs of farmers only if they were allowed to have part in formulating it, and urged them to demand the right to determine that policy.

"I cannot conceive any other group being more interested in what he said, and it will be only through the policy for agriculture should be," he said, "and it will be only through organized effort, neighbor working with neighbor, that we can hope to put into practice the principles that will make this American policy for agriculture what it should be."

Re-opening of Mines in Indiana is Near

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Resumption of operations in Indiana's bituminous coal field, where many mines have been idle for more than seventeen months, appeared likely today as the result of negotiations of a new wage scale by miners and operators.

After five weeks of conference, a joint scale committee of both groups last night agreed that the basic wage scale adopted in the Illinois field—$6.10 per day and 91 cents a ton—should be the basis for a new Indiana wage contract. This compromise will supplant the old Jacksonville agreement of $7.50 per day and $1.08 per ton, which expired April 1, 1927, and was discarded by the miners union last July, as a basis for wage negotiations.

Following the agreement yesterday, miners and operators signed a new wage contract which is to remain in effect until April 1, 1930.
